Sesqui Patron Ticket Sales Progressing

As the sesquicentennial program draws nearer, sesqui committees are deserting their places at busy phones and desks and are taking to the streets with their appeals.

The "direct approach" has considerable merit, according to Howard E. Firestone, patron ticket chairman.

When Firestone, (r.) above, accosted Charles Haldi on a downtown street recently, Haldi bought a patron ticket. The exchange of money and ticket attracted another passerby, Miss Gunhilde Nyberg, who is now explaining the patron ticket project to her fellow students at the high school.

Each ticket costs $5 and is worth 5,000 votes (purpose to be announced later). The purchasers of tickets are listed in the official program which will be buried in the sesqui time capsule. Ticketholders also will have box seats for each performance of the saga of Salem. Non-profit groups make a 10 per cent profit on tickets sold. ## Taylor Mails Out Sacks of Salt, U. S. Steel Sets Fertilizer As Campaign Stunt Income Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Salt again is seasoning the May 8 primary election campaign of Democrat candidates for lieutenant governor.

Two years ago John Taylor, Salem printer, sent voters tiny sacks of salt "to be taken with the words of my opponents." He is repeating this year with embellishments.

His action followed an oppo-

Army Contracts Being Probed

Nixon Campaign Strategist Is Called

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigating senators lined up to key witnesses for questioning today in a probe of Army contracts which has involved the name of Murray Chotiner, one of Vice President Nixon's 1952 campaign strategists.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) announced that Chotiner would have a chance to testify before the Senate Investigations subcommittee, if the Los Angeles lawyer cares to explain anything about a $5,000 fee he reportedly received in 1953 as defense counsel for Herman Kravitz, an Atlantic City (N.J.) clothing manufacturer.

Kravitz is one of several garment industry figures under investigation in connection with the subcommittee's search for evidence of possible corruption in the letting of military clothing contracts.

He was convicted in a Brooklyn federal court in 1954 on charges of misappropriating furs provided by the government for the manufacturing of Parka Hoods for U.S. troops. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $5,000.

In Los Angeles, Chotiner said, "It is true that in May of 1953 I received a fee to represent Mr. Samuel and Herman Kravitz as an attorney." Samuel Kravitz is Herman's father.

Chotiner said he has given the

Salem Red Cross Drive Late Pledges Sought

The Salem Red Cross drive, still $2,000 short of its goal of $20,018, will be wound up "in the next few days," according to Dr. Bruno Stanga, chairman of the drive.

The drive officially closed March 31 but late pledges are still being accepted. Dr. Stanga requested "those who have been inadvertently missed or have not as yet made their contributions" to send them to the Red Cross office as soon as possible.

ent's mailing of thousands of packets of forget-me-not seeds. R. Edward Tepe, five-term mayor of Norwood, Cincinnati suburb, came up with the seed reminders to voters.

Salt and Fertilizer

The packets made Taylor remember the publicity attending his salt stunt in 1954. The former state senator printed up some double envelopes this year. In one side he put salt, in the other fertilizer.

"Beware of candidates bearing gifts of seeds," read Taylor's envelopes. "Salt—this side of this envelope contains a little Democratic salt which you might need if my opponent's forget-me-not seeds turn out to be cucumbers."

The other side of the envelopes contain the fertilizer which Taylor says, "you might need to make my opponent's forget-me-not seeds bloom. Who knows?"

"The 'valuable' contents of this envelope," reads an inscription at the bottom, "is being provided in the spirit of fun and to prove that my opponent can't get ahead of me with his clever advertising gimmicks."

This is Taylor's third bid for lieutenant governor. His first was in 1940. He also ran for U.S. senator in 1944.

Tepe is making his first bid for statewide office. An attorney, he has been a delegate to three Democratic National Conventions.

The third candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor is Roy H. Burry of Lyons, Fulton County, a former state liquor department official.

Republicans also have three candidates for lieutenant governor. They are Paul M. Herbert of Columbus, who held that office four terms; Tennyson Guyer of Findlay, lecturer and former Calk

No General Price Rise Seen At This Time

NEW YORK (AP)—While Board Chairman Roger M. Blough of United States Steel Corp. sees no general price rise in steel "at the time," he has left the door open to further consideration of this matter.

"Steel at 6½ cents a pound is a low-priced product," he told newsmen Tuesday after "Big Steel" reported that it had broken records for net income, sales and production in the first quarter.

"Profits are low in the light of our operating rate," Blough said. He added that under present tax laws, regular depreciation "yields far from enough money to replace facilities worn out in production."

The result, he said, is that $2 of price is needed to yield $1 of income for purposes of depreciation. This, he added, is mainly the result of inflation and "we're as much opposed to inflation as anybody."

While no price rise is contemplated "for our steel mill products at this time," Blough said, "what the effects of labor negotiations will be remains to be seen."

Negotiations may start any time after May 1 and, if they are unsuccessful, a strike could begin as of July 1.

Ike Wins Popularity Contest With Stevenson In Pennsylvania Primary

By The Associated Press

President Eisenhower won a Pennsylvania popularity contest with Democrat Adlai Stevenson by a comfortable margin Tuesday. The President also won sweeping Republican endorsement in Massachusetts and was ahead on scanty returns in Alaska.

Stevenson trailed a Democratic favorite son candidate—Rep. McCormack—in Massachusetts and took a slight lead over Sen. Estes Kefauver in Alaska's Democratic preference primary.

Latest counts showed: PENNSYLVANIA: Presidential poll Democrats, 7,342 of 8,730 precincts; Stevenson 507,282; Kefauver (write-in) 22,898.

Republican, 7,365 precincts: Eisenhower 779,938; Den. Knowland (R-Calif.) 36,839.

MASSACHUSETTS: Democratic, 1,682 precincts of 1,767, including all of Boston: Kefauver 4,340; Stevenson 18,612; Dever 207; Eisenhower 1,958; Hariman 387; Kennedy 1,048; Lausche 262; McCormack 27,248; Symington 170; Truman 193.

Central Clinic Reviews Details Of New Addition

Annual Association Meeting Held; Report On Past Year Given

Details of the $140,000 addition to the Central Clinic and Hospital were reviewed at the annual association meeting Tuesday, according to a report given by Albert Hanna, administrator.

Facilities in the wing were urgently needed, according to Hanna, because of the increased demands upon the diagnostic facilities of the hospital by out-patients as well as an increased number of in-patients. A patient wing had been constructed in 1950.

Of the total cost, $85,000 was borrowed, with the remainder coming from contributions. Hanna said. A major portion of the alterations to and renovation of the old section of the building was charged against maintenance and plant operation costs.

Other improvements to the hospital grounds include the grading and paving of the alley north of the hospital which was done last summer, according to Hanna.

Served as in-patients during the year were 2,345 adults and 579 newborn, with a total of 16,108 patient days care provided for adults and 2,979 days for newborn infants.

Tests performed in the laboratory numbered 33,651, and 9,743 X-ray examinations were made, according to a statistical report.

Operations performed during the year totaled 668, and 1,408 patients were treated in the hospital emergency room.

Of the patients admitted to the hospital for care, 1,341 were from Salem, 1,559 from other Ohio residences, 21 from out-of-state, one from Canada and two from Venezuela.

An average of 60 employees were on duty daily to perform services which totaled 172,584 man hours of labor, the report states.

Payrolls Totaled $203,442

Payroll costs amounted to $203,442.25 or 53 per cent of the total hospital operations cost, and an additional $26,058.70 was spent for professional services in the X-ray, laboratory and anesthesia departments.

Total operating costs of the hospital were $383,729.76, including an allowance of $20,146.94 for free service and bad debts, $3,479.13 for contract service adjustments, interest charges of $1,714.68 and provision for depreciation in the amount of $18,106.42.

Total income for the year from services rendered to patients, bad debt recoveries, office maintenance, discounts and miscellaneous amounted to $377,865.22, resulting in a net loss of $5,864.54. The net income of $12,241.88 before provision was made for depreciation, was spent Driscoll is a graduate of Youngstown College where he played varsity football, and received his master's degree from Kent State University. He served two terms of military service, including one and one-half years in the Korean war and three years during World War II.

Principal at Negley for the past four years, Driscoll also served some time as clerk of the Negley Board of Education.

Ike Believes U.S., Russians Close In Development Of Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he believes the United States is somewhere around the position of the Soviet Union in the development of guided missiles.

Eisenhower made the statement at a news conference in replying to questions dealing with the assertion by Kremlin leader Nikita Khrushchev that Russia soon will have a hydrogen bomb missile capable of striking at any part of the world.

Eisenhower at the same time rejected suggestions by Adlai Stevenson and others that this country halt its tests of hydrogen bombs. A new test is scheduled in the Pacific next month.

While refusing to comment specifically on the proposal by Stevenson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Eisenhower said it was a bit paradoxical, when we are working as hard as we can on development of guided missiles, for anyone to advocate halting H-bomb tests.

The President said he wishes the money spent on such programs could be channeled to peaceful uses—and that in conducting the tests the United States is not simply trying to come up with what he termed a bigger bang than some other country.

But research in nuclear weapons fields without tests is useless and a waste of money, Eisenhower said. He added that as long as it is necessary to get into the weapons field, it should be done right.

As for Khrushchev's statement that the Soviet Union soon will have a guided missile with an H-bomb warhead, Eisenhower said he sees no reason why the Russian would make a misstatement on a

Adoption Of Soil Bank Seen This Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said today he is "confident there will be a soil bank program adopted by the Congress this session."

He made this comment as he asked Secretary of Agriculture Benson to appear at a hearing of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee handling the annual farm money bill.

Russell, who heads the subcommittee, said he would question Benson and other Eisenhower administration officials about a House Democratic proposal to vote $1,200,000,000 for soil bank payments this year.

In the House, GOP Leader Martin of Massachusetts said the Republicans, with expected help from Democratic farm state members, "have the votes now" to hitch Eisenhower's soil bank program to the Agriculture Department's annual money bill.

Consideration of that bill, originally scheduled for today, was postponed until next week.

At a closed meeting late Tuesday, House GOP members voted unanimously for a "comprehensive, effective and equitable" soil bank, "specifically" including the President's proposal for prepayment this year.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture Committee Tuesday introduced a soil bank bill which omitted authority Eisenhower asked to make advance payments this year to farmers agreeing to take land out of production and put it in a soil bank reserve next year. Eisenhower proposed prepayments of 50 per cent when a farmer signs a soil bank contract.

It was learned that Cooley's bill was drawn with the advice of Agriculture Department attorneys. Aides said he omitted the prepayment provision because the bill was drawn to conform with Eisenhower's original soil bank proposal last January. The advance payment suggestion was made after Eisenhower vetoed the farm bill last week.

Leaders Schedule Extra Session For Late Today

Khrushchev, Stassen Talk On Disarmament Results 'Important'

LONDON (AP)—Soviet and British leaders decreed today an 11th hour reprieve for their talks on urgent world problems. Hopes rose for at least a small measure of agreement.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev looked thoughtful and solemn as they left No. 10 Downing St. after what was to have been their last session with Prime Minister Eden. But Eden smiled cheerfully.

Both sides had sent their top negotiating teams into action to try to break the deadlocks and narrow the differences on the problems of the Middle East, disarmament, trade and cultural contacts, German reunification and European security.

Neither side wanted the talks to end in complete failure, and there was speculation that at an "overtime" meeting late today the Russians might offer a package deal—cooperation in the Middle East for increased British-Soviet trade and cultural exchanges.

From the Prime Minister's residence, Bulganin and Khrushchev hurried to a luncheon with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

May Meet Thursday There still was a possibility of an additional session Thursday, only 24 hours before Bulganin and Khrushchev are scheduled to leave for home.

The slim prospect that the visit might still result in some substantial narrowing of East-West differences received a slight boost from a talk Khrushchev had Tuesday night with Harold Stassen, adviser on disarmament.

Stassen, Khrushchev Meet Stassen and Khrushchev got together in an anteroom barely removed from the hubbub of a Soviet reception at fashionable Claridges Hotel. They talked two hours, "all about disarmament and nothing else," Stassen said.

Stassen wouldn't tell reporters whether they made any progress on disarmament but he added: "I am going to report to the President tonight just what he said. I think it's that important."

So far the Soviet Union has refused to agree to control measures which the United States insists must be part of any disarmament plan if it is to be effective.

Among the 4,000 guests at Tuesday night's reception were leading British politicians, titled Britons, comedian Charlie Chaplin and Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red Dean" of Canterbury.

As the crush of the crowd increased, the Kremlin leaders were ushered into the private anteroom. Inside, Bulganin was heard demanding, "What happened to the vodka? Give me another vodka."

THE RIGHT TO KNOW

'Off The Record' Technique Abused By Officials For Suppression Of News

By KENT COOPER

By North American Newspaper Alliance

After the first World War the practice of giving news "off the record" started. It increased after the second. The phrase means that the reporters are given news in confidence and, therefore, cannot print it. Even before it was so described, however, the practice of imparting information in confidence already had become widespread and was followed by officials everywhere from the highest in Washington down to the constable in an office of the justice of the peace.

Reporters on routine news runs around government offices usually are expected by their newspapers to listen to off-the-record disclosures. When the off-the-record injunction is accepted, the confidence is scrupulously observed. That practice cannot conflict with the work of the inquisitive reporter patiently investigating questionable government operations, for no official would be so naive as to use the off-the-record method to disclose malfeasance, solely to suppress exposure.

THERE ARE THOSE who say Theodore Roosevelt invented the "trial balloon" while in public life in New York. This is a method by which a man in public office confides to an individual newsmen that he favors or is about to adopt some policy.

He does not allow the reporter to quote him but tells him "to use it, if he wants to," on his own responsibility.

If the proposal is favorably received by the public, the politician then publicly confirms the disclosure and the reporter who took the chance can claim a "scoop." If the public reaction is unfavorable, the politician can either deny the report, usually with vehemence, or just let it die without further mention.

In either latter case, the reporter is in the "doghouse" with his newspaper and his fellow reporters. Once thus imposed upon, he probably never takes another chance. On the other hand, if the politician confirms the rumor, the favored reporter gladly repeats. This he may do until one of his stories is denied.

The "trial balloon" scheme always involves only one reporter. The word of two reporters against that of an official would cast suspicion even upon a president. The off-the-record technique, however, to guarantee suppression is applied to as many newsmen as possible. Having learned that reporters observe off-the-record injunctions, officials have tried to apply the method to the public.

IN PARIS, in October, 1948, Secretary of State Marshall spoke to a large gathering at a luncheon of laymen in the American Club. He emphasized at the beginning of his remarks that he was speaking "off the record." As the phrase only recently has gotten into the dictionaries, probably most of those who heard him did not know he was speaking in confidence.

At any rate, they went out and talked freely about what the secretary disclosed. Getting accounts from guests as to what he had said, newspapermen who had not been invited to the luncheon and were not told that he spoke in confidence scooped those who were present and who, therefore, were obligated not to report the speech. Even after the secretary had been quoted in American newspaper dispatches sent home by the invited, he refused to lift the embargo for those who honored him by their presence.

This was as nothing, however, compared to the instance when Secretary Marshall later, in a Washington hotel, addressed an audience of more than 1,000 from various walks of life, prefacing his speech with "my remarks will be off the record." Again he was talking to laymen who may not have sensed what his warning meant. At any rate, they top went out and repeated what he said.

NEARLY FIVE YEARS later and under another presidential administration there were still evidences that the State Department thought its officials could publicly address large gatherings in confidence. Either the practice had become ingrained in the State Department code for public addresses or the department had actually issued instructions that all public addresses by its officials must be prefaced with the off-the-record phrase.

Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's diplomatic trouble shooter in the Western Pacific, was welcomed to Richmond, Va., his native city, with a luncheon after his return from conferences with Syngman Rhee in the summer of 1953. There were 600 persons present.

Before speaking, Mr. Robertson declared that he would talk "off the record." He had no sooner pronounced the word "record" than the reporter for the Richmond News Leader left the room. Yet in the next edition of his newspaper this same reporter had a story on Mr. Robertson's talk.

Of the occurrence the News Leader had this to say editorially:

Because of the warmth of Mr. Robertson's homecoming, we are all the more reluctant to inject what we hope will not be regarded as a sour note. For reasons that are understandable to him, but never can be acceptable to the press, Mr. Robertson prefaced his remarks with a statement that he was speaking "off the record."

The same thing must be said to Mr. Robertson that was said once before in these columns to Gen. George C. Marshall: It just can't be done. No speaker of national prominence, in a position of high governmental importance, can speak "off the record" to 600 persons.

General Marshall . . . once spoke to a packed ballroom in the Commonwealth Club, with a preliminary admonition that he was "off the record." We regarded it as our bounden duty to cover his remarks for what ever they were worth; and though they weren't worth much, we reported them. The republic survived.

Robertson's action, like that of Secretary Marshall, simply made the State Department rule appear absurd. To the press, however, it was significant of a trend.

IT WAS ALSO significant of a trend, but worse than absurd that the report on China by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer (in which he foresaw the collapse of the Chiang Kai-shek government) was withheld from public knowledge for two years before the Nationalist debacle. The American people need not have been surprised nor shocked by what happened in China. Gen. Wedemeyer has been sent to the Orient in the summer of 1947 for the expressed purpose of analyzing the situation for the government and, since we were not at war, presumably for the people, too, through their government. But as what he reported was bad news from the administration standpoint, it was not given to the public—as if secrecy through suppression could avert an international calamity!

What was suppressed in October 1947 was prophetically worded as follows:

Continued deterioration of the situation (in China) may result in establishment of a Soviet satellite in Manchuria and ultimately in a Communist-dominated China, which would be inimicable to the United States' interests.

Though the report could have no military value, since we were not then at war or even engaged in the "police action" in Korea, the Truman administration, which was then laying plans to retain office, decided not to disclose it until sometime after the presidential election in 1948. Then it openly turned against the Chiang regime, and from the Reds by aiding the Nationalist government.

This was a case of suppression of news in peacetime with a vengeance! Suppression of news of such importance is discordant with the theory of democracy.

1st Link Of Ohio Police TV Tried Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The first link of a proposed statewide police TV network was demonstrated Tuesday by the State Department of Highway Safety and the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

From the offices of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles the system performed its sample task: spying on jaywalkers.

A camera caught the scene on the street below and transmitted it to a receiver in the office.

Highway Safety Director U.C. Felty said the police network plan has "unlimited" possibilities.

He also demonstrated a "copy console," by which information on drivers' licenses and other documents could be transmitted visually to law enforcement offices all over the state.

The director has asked the Federal Communications Commission to approve the network.

If it is approved, the system will be installed about June 1, Felty said. If not, leased cable will be used. Felty said present plans call for microwave relay to towers around the state.

Contracts will be let next Tuesday for a 400-foot tower to be erected at New Albany, which would be used for both conventional and microwave receiving, he added.

The director commented that a patrolman carrying a portable camera could plug it in anywhere power is available and transmit visual information from an accident or murder scene.

Notices To Be Sent Out Before Licenses Expire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Starting in September the Bureau of Motor Vehicles will send out notices 30 days prior to the expiration date of Ohio drivers' licenses, says U.C. Felty, director of highway safety.

Ohio operator licenses are good for three years and expire on the licensee's birthday.

Appeals Court Rules Congress Has The Power Of 'Exposure'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has the power of "exposure" if it is incidental to a legislative purpose, the U. S. Court of Appeals held Monday in reinstating the contempt of Congress conviction of John T. Watkins.

Watkins, of Rock Island, Ill., and an organizer for the United Auto Workers, was a witness before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1954. He denied he had ever been a card-carrying Communist but acknowledged he had cooperated with Communists from 1942 to 1947. He answered questions about persons "whom I believe still are" Reds but refused to talk about 30 people. He said he would not discuss persons "whom to my best knowledge and belief have long since removed themselves from the Communist movement."

For that refusal to answer, Watkins was convicted of contempt, fined $500 and given a suspended one-year sentence.

On his appeal, a three-judge panel of the appellate court agreed 2-1 with Watkins' defense that the purpose of the hearing was only "exposure" and that the questions asked were not related to any valid legislative action the committee was authorized to take.

The government asked for a rehearing before the full bench and the panel decision was overturned as a result, 6-2.

Chief Judge Harry W. Edgerton and Judge David L. Bazelon, who made up the two-vote majority on the panel, were Monday's dissenters.

The full court's majority opinion was written by Judge Walter M. Bastian, the dissenter on the panel. He wrote:

"Congress has power of exposure if the exposure is incidental to the exercise of a legislative function.

"Congress certainly has the power of inquiry or of investigation when the inquiry or investigation is upon a subject concerning which Congress must legislate. 'The fact that such an inquiry or investigation may reveal something or 'expose' something is incidental and without effect upon the validity of the inquiry.' Bastian held further that "Congress has power to investigate the history of the Communist party and to ask the questions Watkins refused to answer." Bastian wrote specifically that inquiries as to whether 30 people were Communists between 1942 and 1947 were pertinent and "could be asked for a valid legislative purpose."

Edgerton's dissent said that to support a conviction the government must show the questions Watkins would not answer were pertinent to an authorized congressional inquiry, and added:

"Words and conduct of the committee on other occasions go far to confirm the inference that its purpose on this occasion was exposure."

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., counsel for Watkins, said the case will be carried to the Supreme Court.

Kitchen Cabinet Comes To Ohio

800 GOP Women Entertain Members

By The Associated Press
Up front firing away as the primary political campaign entered its final two weeks were three of the five Democrats seeking nomination for Ohio governor and Ohio's Republican women meeting in Toledo.

The women—about 800 of them—entertained 13 "Kitchen Cabinet" members from Washington for four hours Tuesday afternoon and in seminars were told how the Eisenhower administration is dealing with the nation's problems.

Democrat Robert W. Reider, Port Clinton publisher, told a testimonial dinner audience at Oak Harbor his "very first act" if elected governor would be to call party leaders to the state capital for a conference to "restore Democratic processes to the Democratic party in Ohio." He also said he would advocate annual sessions of the Legislature, instead of the present biennial ones.

Other points in Reider's 18-plank platform included:

Repeal of the axle-mile tax which he called "discriminatory" and a "colossal failure."

A program for new school facilities and better pay for teachers.

Revision of workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation laws to give workers a better break.

Liberalizing of the aid-to-the aged laws.

"The finest freeway system in the nation."

Some 300 attended the $10 a plate dinner.

In Washington Democrat Oscar L. Fleckner, former Springfield city manager and former Ohio liquor control chief, said he thinks he can beat C. William O'Neill, Republican gubernatorial candidate, but isn't so sure Michael V. DiSalle could. Fleckner said he regards the Democratic contest for the nomination for governor as a "toss-up" between himself and DiSalle.

DiSalle, ex-mayor of Toledo and former federal price stabilizer, was in Cleveland to address two rallies and answer Municipal Judge John E. Sweeney's assertion the "bosses" were backing DiSalle.

Sweeney and Mayor Frank X. Kryzan of Youngstown are the other two Democrats in the five-way race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"I have always opined on these basis that anybody is entitled to come into my office with recommendations and advice," DiSalle said, "but the responsibility of decision always had to be mine."

The Ohio Federation of Republican Women conclude their Toledo meeting today with business sessions. Tuesday night they heard Red Benson, son of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, accuse Democrats of scuttling the farm bill with unacceptable amendments.

He praised the president for not "signing something against all his principles."

The wives of Secretary of Agriculture Benson, Atty. Gen. Brownell and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and the mates of 10 other secretaries and undersecretaries flew in for the session.

Said Mrs. Humphrey:

"One of the biggest goals to be reached, a balanced budget, has been a great milestone for all of us. We have estimated a balanced budget for this fiscal year and for the next fiscal year as well. Tax reduction has been substantial, but there must be more of it as further expenditure cuts and increasing productivity of our expanding economy makes this possible."

Mrs. Wilbur M. Brucker, wife of the secretary of the Army, said, "when anyone asks me about bus-

Buses Remain Segregated

Alabama Boycotters, Officials Map Moves

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Montgomery's newly integrated city buses remained segregated for all practical purposes today while Negro boycotters and city officials debated their next moves.

The traditional assignment of seats according to race was ended Tuesday by bus company decree. The few Negroes who rode buses, however, made no attempt to sit in the front section formerly reserved for white persons.

No tense incidents between the races have been reported.

Throughout most of the South, bus and trolley segregation continued. In Virginia, however, a policy of mixed seating was being followed in Richmond and Norfolk and was expected at Portsmouth.

City and state officials here insisted Alabama bus segregation laws are still in effect and would be strictly enforced.

The three-member Montgomery City Commission Tuesday issued a warning that it expects the bus company and all other persons to abide by existing laws and ordinances. They said the Supreme Court ruling affected only South Carolina.

Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers said he would order the arrest of "any passenger or bus driver who indulges in desegregation."

Shadow Of An Umbrella

Four tell-tale words in a dispatch from Jerusalem reveal Israel's misgivings about U.M. Secretary General Hammarskjold's peace-making mission in the Middle East.

Israeli sources are quoted as saying concessions on border issues between Israel and Egypt are possible, "provided they are reciprocal."

The shadow of Neville Chamberlain's big umbrella has fallen on Israel, whose leaders are afraid of appeasement that would sacrifice their fledgling nation on the altar of pacification.

They realize their independence could be made to seem less important than a settlement between the great powers in their troubled part of the world—a price that might seem justifiable for "peace in our time."

Moreover, they realize that in this position they share a possible sacrificial role with their Arab neighbors. Whatever may be done by the United Nations or by the great powers in the United Nations, all Middle Eastern governments must keep an eye on survival. That is the first law of self-preservation when the great powers beat out settlements on the anvil of expediency.

If the secretary general of the United Nations can reassure Israel and its Arab neighbors that every step of pacification will be taken with scrupulous fairness, fear of appeasement will diminish. Dag Hammarskjold has tackled one of the hardest diplomatic missions of the 20th century.

Tax Requiem

Dark mutterings about tax revolt always are heard after the federal income tax deadline. But they sound a little darker in 1956.

Taxpayers are beginning to feel the pinch of taxes that once seemed negligible in comparison with their federal income taxes—real estate taxes that keep increasing, sales taxes that keep increasing, local income taxes.

They are beginning to understand what it will mean if these taxes continue to increase, as they undoubtedly will, while federal income taxes stay up there at wartime levels.

They are beginning to understand, also, that graduated income taxes put the highest premium on evasion in the highest brackets; that the only income taxpayers who put it on the line without quibbling are those whose payments are withheld from their modest salaries and do not find it worthwhile to hire experts to tell them where the loopholes are.

They have heard about Joe Louis, who now must lend a hand in wrestling exhibitions because he still owes the U. S. Treasury a million dollars his money handlers never got around to paying; about juicy expense accounts of tax-deductible money for big operators who know how to fix everything legally but their own teeth; about the thousand and one legal loopholes that have been gouged through the legal barriers against ordinary, garden-variety tax evasion.

They have heard, too, about Pierre Poujade, the firebrand who kindled a tax revolt in the French republic. And they have heard that their own representatives and senators in Congress will be so busy spending money this year that they will have neither the time nor the inclination to ease up on income taxes for at least another year—and perhaps never.

Some day, pow . . .

Straight Talk From Mr. Meany

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, is a man with an unprecedented responsibility. Either he wins his battle to clean up the merged unions of the AFL and CIO, or unionism in general will take a setback. Formerly, it one part of unionism took a setback, as CIO did when it was riddled with reds, the other part did not necessarily take a similar setback. But now the two main elements of unionism are under the same leadership.

That is why Mr. Meany has an unprecedented responsibility.

"News And Views," a weekly publication of Ohio CIO Council, reports in its April 20 edition that Mr. Meany said in a speech to the newly formed AFL-CIO council in Missouri: "While looking at our enemies without, let us take a good look at ourselves—at the minority from within who do more damage than our enemies. I think we are better than 99 per cent right and decent, but this one per cent gets more publicity. The pressure for anti-union legislation is increasing because of the one per cent, and will continue to increase unless we curb it."

This is straight talk. It goes directly to the heart of the merged organization's critical problem with the Teamsters Union, whose national leadership is part of the one per cent minority doing more damage than unionism's sworn enemies.

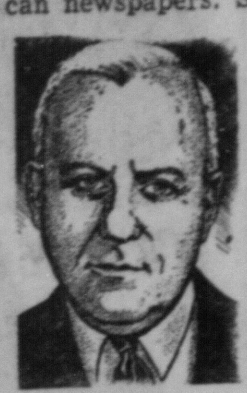

It also goes directly to the heart of the reason why unionists cannot expect the American public ever to condone compulsory union membership.

Growing Confusion

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Many Public Men Duped By Soviet Propaganda

This is an expression of deepest sympathy for the average reader of the news dispatches in American newspapers. Small wonder he is bewildered and can't tell some times when he is being fed propaganda that delights the Communists.

Lawrence what the Soviets want America to do.

For several months Moscow, through its agents and stooges throughout the world, has been urging a ban on tests of H-bombs and A-bombs. Some scientists, impressed by what they thought was a danger of "fall-out," conscientiously argued for such a prohibition. Other scientists said there was no danger of "fall-out" from the tests thus far made and that it's dangerous only when big bombs are actually exploded—and these usually have been tried out in midocean.

But, while Soviet Russia has been urging other countries to abandon nuclear tests, it has been doing a lot of testing itself. It is admitted that some chicken-hearted and timid scientists high up in government during the Truman regime actually delayed the development of the H-bomb for many years and thereby Soviet Russia was given a chance to catch up.

WHY THEY DELAYED is still a matter of controversy, and there is no proof that anything disloyal happened—it was a case of emotionalism rather than military reasoning. A delay in tests while the enemy carries on its experimentation could be fatal to America.

Last Saturday Adlai Stevenson made a speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in which he tackled this delicate subject head on. He said:

"I believe we should give prompt and earnest consideration to stopping further tests of the hydrogen bomb, as Commissioner Murray of the Atomic Energy Commission recently proposed. As a layman, I question the sense in multiplying and enlarging weapons of a destructive power already almost incomprehensible. Of course, I would call upon other nations to follow our lead, and if they don't and persist in further tests, we will know about it and we can reconsider our policy."

Mr. Stevenson does not say how many precious months he would wait, if he were president, before he let our scientists and our manufacturers of H-bombs go ahead again. His argument that America should stop and then wait and see.

THERE IS SOME doubt whether any system of verification of what the enemy would be doing while America held off would be foolproof. President Eisenhower has been trying for months to get the Soviets to agree to a mutually acceptable air-inspection plan but to no avail.

So, to take a look at the news ticker of Monday:

At 9:26 a.m., the Communist party boss, Khrushchev, told British business men that the Soviet Union is building a guided missile with an atomic war head.

At 10:08 a.m. Sen. Kefauver said he "saw no particular good in having further H-bomb tests."

At 12:28 p.m., Mr. Stevenson was asked if he believed Soviet Russia would go along with his suggestion that both sides stop testing deadly atomic weapons. "They've given every indication of it," he said.

At 1:23 p.m., the Senate got into a debate on the subject, and Sen. Kuchel, Republican, of California, said that some of the people who are proposing an end to the U.S. test are "good, but mistaken." Sen. Bridges, Republican, said "These people who are taken in by some of the things that are going on should have their heads examined."

At 3:09 p.m., Sen. Kefauver said he doesn't believe this country should halt testing of hydrogen bombs unless Russia does. He added: "I think that anything we do along that line should be reciprocal. I wouldn't want this country to stop testing if they (the Russians) are going to keep on testing."

THEN WHAT'S all the shouting about? Why propose, as Mr. Stevenson did, that America take the initiative in banning nuclear tests? Mr. Stevenson says he took his cue from Thomas E. Murray of the Atomic Energy Commission. A careful reading of Mr. Murray's statement of April 12 doesn't show that the latter wants to stop the tests without reference to what Russia may do. He said:

"We must beware of the false idealism lurking in the Soviet slogan, 'ban the bomb.' In the discussions and negotiations looking to disarmament, it would be sheer folly to be maneuvered into making a blanket renunciation of the use of all types of nuclear weapons."

At the end of the day, this correspondent saw at 4:44 p.m., an item on the news ticker which read:

"Singapore — Four British destroyers and a frigate will take part in British atomic tests scheduled to be held soon off Australia's Monte Bello Island."

JUST A FEW WEEKS ago Sir Anthony Eden told Parliament he saw no reason why Britain should stop testing super-bombs.

It's curious, but just before America prepares for a big test—there's one coming soon in the Pacific—the propaganda to ban the bomb always spreads throughout the world, and many well-meaning and loyal Americans take up the cry. It's a bit confusing.

Expansion Of NATO

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, in the manner of a man dipping his toe into water to see if he gets chilled or overheated, seems to be suggesting the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might be expanded.

The idea isn't new with him. At the moment he does not commit himself to it. Rather, he is frankly throwing out a hint to see what reaction he gets.

An expansion would mean the 15 allies of NATO, which was created in 1949 as defense against Russia, would move from a purely military alliance into a wider field—perhaps economic—of cooperation among the Western partners.

Pressure has been building up among this country's NATO allies to stop using it for military purposes only. Dulles mentioned this possibility in a speech Monday to the Associated Press luncheon in New York.

He said NATO "already serves as an indispensable and vital instrument of the Atlantic community. But the time has come, I believe, to consider whether its organization does not need to be further developed, if it is adequately to serve the needs of this and coming generations." He added:

"If that be the common desire of the NATO member nations, the United States will join eagerly in exploring the possibilities which now beckon forward."

Last Dec. 16 the NATO foreign ministers, including Dulles, endorsed a proposal by Italy's Gaetano Martino for greater cooperation among the NATO members in nonmilitary ways, such as economic and cultural fields.

Canada's foreign minister, Lester Pearson, has been plugging this idea and on Feb. 29 Italy's President Giovanni Gronchi made a big pitch for it in an address to Congress.

The next day, March 1, President Eisenhower and Gronchi issued a joint statement saying they agreed on the necessity of "further deepening the solidarity among the members of the North Atlantic community through increased cooperation in all fields."

That U.S. allies are not completely happy with the military emphasis this country has placed on NATO up to now was disclosed in other ways, ways which must have given Dulles some concern, since he knows Russia wants to wreck NATO.

This month French Premier Guy Mollet said the United States thinks too much of "security in military terms." And on March 2 France's Foreign Minister Christian Pineau cautioned against an "Iron Curtain mentality" in the West—particularly the United States—put too much emphasis on military strength.

On March 29 the Parliament of Iceland, which is a NATO member and is a strategic island midway between New York and Moscow, called on the United States to get its troops and airmen out of the country.

United States Underrated

By RAYMOND MOLEY

President Eisenhower's address to the American Society of Newspaper editors was obviously aimed at refuting the alarmist assertions of the leading Democratic candidates concerning our status in world affairs. It should also alert the American people generally against accepting the pessimistic comments of many of our Soviet "experts" among the so-called "intellectuals."

The chief lamentations about the decline of the United States in world affairs concern developments in the Soviet Union and so-called neutral nations which have been visited by the Soviet leaders in the past few months.

These developments have, so they say, been extremely auspicious for Communism. They reflect a superiority of Soviet diplomacy born of industrial success, of overwhelming military superiority, and an increasing feeling of security at home on the part of Soviet leadership.

In contrast, the pessimists claim that our diplomacy is weak because of increasing "anti-intellectualism" in the Eisenhower administration. "Anti-intellectualism" consists, it seems, in not taking these experts seriously enough. There is a real undercurrent of yearning for the return of the Acheson days when neutralists were high in the councils of the State Department.

A bit of calm common sense might well dispel the nightmare thus conjured up. The strength of our moral position, shared by Britain and other free peoples, remains and should grow. The Western military alliance remains and grows with the incorporation of Western Germany into NATO.

The unparalleled economic well-being enjoyed by our economic system refutes, more and more, the Soviet's assumption of an inevitable collapse. In Northeastern Europe the swing has been away from various forms of collectivism ranging from benign socialism to Communism. Western Germany and Belgium under private enterprise prosper within sight of the Iron Curtain.

The two traveling salesmen from the Soviet are not doing overly well in Conservative Britain. There is, of course, some trouble in the Eden government, but that is offset by more and more disunion within the ranks of the opposition.

Communist prophets, from Lenin on, have asserted that the third generation under Soviet rule, indoctrinated from childhood against the West, would know nothing of individual aspirations and rights. But it now seems that the third generation is the very group that is causing the most concern in the Kremlin.

As the President pointed out, Korea, Indochina, Iran, and Trieste do not indicate that American diplomacy has been so ineffective as politicians in search of votes and experts in search of influence would have us believe.

The amazing popularity of the President, despite farm troubles and other irritants, makes it clear that the infection of pessimism has not yet reached the mind and conscience of the American people. Confidence in the judgments of the President still remains, in foreign as well as domestic affairs.

Spring Harvest

By TRUMAN TWILL

The first of the lamb harvest of 1956 arrived last Sunday night and were ready for action Monday morning. The rest will follow in due time until the entire crop has been harvested, probably by the middle of May.

The sheep-shearer, who performed his annual chore of removing the fleece only three days before the lambs started to come, reported a bumper crop is on the way this year—100 per cent expectations.

After six years, what used to be an occasion for hand-wringing and excitement, now is a routine event for our transplanted household of townies. Excitement has yielded to profound admiration for the natural processes of nature that cause all things to happen in their own good time and in their prescribed way.

There is no domesticated animal harder to deal with on a rational basis than a sheep, under ordinary circumstances. But there is no domesticated animal with finer instincts for taking care of its offspring.

Alibi For Lost Auto

Next time you get lost on a vacation trip and someone starts grumbling, there's but one thing to do.

Stop the car and calmly explain that according to the U. S. Geological Survey only about 37 per cent of the United States is adequately mapped. So there.

Such undisputed authority should quell the most persistent back-seat driver or in-law.

This may be your gain, but Gerald Fitzgerald, chief topographical engineer of the survey, wishes it isn't so.

Postwar government water, mineral and highway programs "have caught us with our maps down," he confessed to the American Congress on Surveying and Mapping meeting in Washington recently.

Worse yet, the country won't be adequately mapped for another 17 years, he predicts. Seems that the current rate of mapping is about 4 per cent a year.

So don't feel too badly when you lose your way, for Uncle Sam will be groping around himself for a long time to come.

So They Say

Before going to sleep say to yourself: I haven't reached my goal yet, whatever it is, and I'm going to be uncomfortable and in a degree unhappy until I do. — Poet Carl Sandburg.

The News invites letters from readers on all important current subjects. The letters should be brief, not to exceed 200 words and must bear the signature and address of the writer to insure publication. Letters with anonymous signatures will not be published.

spring than a ewe when her lambs are born.

These habitually timid animals even overcome their harum-scarum nature. They will stand off an inquisitive dog and hold their ground against a human being when a lamb is by their side.

They will continue to do this, moreover, until the lambs are as big as their mothers. They are completely and selflessly devoted to the assignment they have drawn.

There are exceptions—and in some respects they are more interesting than the rule. They reveal that nature is not perfect in its own production of perfection.

Some ewes grow hysterical when their lambs are about to be born. Some slip so far off their rockers during the event they will have nothing to do with their lambs afterward—and in some cases will try to destroy them.

An occasional mother does not seem to know the score about anything. She is abysmally ignorant. She does not know the first principle about dealing with the blessed event.

But these are exceptions. Normally, a sheep knows enough without ever having read a book, consulted with a doctor, or sent away for a bulletin from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to handle the whole job by herself, frequently after dark in an unlighted, unheated sheepfold, and to lead her offspring proudly to pasture the next morning.

That is, unless it snows or rains. In the event of bad weather, the young ones are kept under cover. Or if bad weather blows up when they are outside, their mothers will lead them to shelter.

All this has become routine after six years, but it is still one of the most rewarding things to be seen in RFD, where the most rewarding things to see are the routine marvels of nature, itself.

It's In The News

They presented Adlai Stevenson with a golf putter at Pinehurst. . . Why not a niblick for his "grip" shots?

He may have lost the baseball vote. . . In autographing that first ball game for Gil McDougald he signed it "to JOE McDougald."

A jockey, Bill Pearson, who has been horsing around quiz shows in vain for some time, won the big money on the $84,000 program. . . The red board didn't go up for some time and we were afraid he might be suspended and lose the purse for cutting in front of Hal March in the stretch.

It was Mrs. Elmer Twitchell who made the best crack concerning AT&T's decision to spend two billion dollars for new building. . . "After all," she said placidly, "what can you get for two billion these days?"

We saw one man standing on his head in the lobby after the new show, "Waiting For Godot" and gesticulating at a man making with double talk. . . Semis they were two fellows discussing the movie rights. . . "Godot" is famed as a comedy nobody understands and we know of a first nighter who left with instructions "You wait for him; I'm going out to a good enigma."

AMERICAN TELEPHONE & Telegraph will spend two billion (that's billion, but) or $7,500,000 per working day, for new construction, causing many a man to ask "What's it gonna do, rebuild all pay stations in the pattern of the Taj Mahal?" That's a lot of moolah. With that kind of double it could give the busy signal via 100 piece orchestras and hire movie stars to say, "They don't answer."

The corporation at its annual meeting said it has forty-seven million phones in the U.S. and expects to make it fifty million this year. (We had no idea there were that many people snapping "Wrong number," "I didn't get my dime back" and "No, I've got a date tonight, but call me tomorrow.")

NO OTHER COMPANY has ever spent two billion per year for construction, but, on the other hand, no other company has so many customers who want so much so fast for a dime. The AT&T is one corporation so completely unique that it refuses even to consider a stock split. Cleo Craig, the president, gets the title of the "corporation Head Least Apt To Go Haywire Because It's a Trend." He hasn't even thought of merging the telephone business with corporations making dental floss, hydraulic pumps, canned hash and auto polish. He can't see any gain in slicing one piece of paper into two, especially if one piece is doing okay for the holder.

But there was a hassle at the annual meeting, with a high court jurist leading a demand for a four-for-one split.

Judge Jonah Goldstein, representing a famous boys club foundation, which bought 650 shares years ago, indicated that the boys who hoped for a split have now become grand parents and that as kids they had waited too long for a pat on the head from Alexander Graham Bell. The company hadn't raised the dividend in a quarter century, he pointed out. The meeting listened with a "Get off the wire" expression and voted for further patience.

THERE WAS A BATTLE over the age of AT&T directors, fourteen of whom are in the sixties and seventies, and some of the eighties, the implication being that a director should at least be able to hear the phone ring. The fact they are all businessmen of distinguished careers seemed somewhat overlooked, but it was announced that after 1960 any phone company director who had reached the age of 72 would be required to "get off the line."

A fight to elect one woman director ran into the usual "You must be standing too far from the phone; I can't hear you." We can't dig this. Without women there would be no money in the phone business. They are on the phone most of the time.

Warren Seeks End To Money Troubles

WARREN, Ohio (P)—Judge William M. McLain summoned the Republican mayor and members of the Democratic-controlled City Council into Common Pleas Court today in an effort to untangle the city's financial knot.

The city is without authority to pay its employees or to buy supplies because no valid appropriations measure for the year has been enacted.

Council passed a $1,291,403 appropriation measure but Mayor William C. Burbank vetoed it when it failed to provide for nine of his administrative appointees.

Republican members of the council upheld the rejection.

The city solicitor, a Democrat, has asked for a writ of mandamus to force the council and mayor to act on a measure. The mayor and council members were in court Monday, and in a pretrial conference supposedly reached an agreement.

Judge McLain then dismissed the suit. But the agreement failed to hold up and McLain ordered the court trial reinstated.

Twins To Get Operation If They Are Identical

BOSTON (P)—A set of 20-year-old twin women are scheduled to arrive tonight to undergo a rare kidney operation at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital if they are identical, rather than fraternal, twins.

The twins are Mrs. Edith Helm, 20, of Sand Springs, Okla., and Mrs. Wanda Foster of Chandler, Okla.

If hospital tests prove that they are identical twins — born of a single but split fertilized egg—one of Mrs. Foster's healthy kidneys will be transplanted to her sister. The hospital said twins must be identical—not fraternal—because a transplanted organ cannot live in alien flesh.

Past Presidents Are Honored At Salem Garden Club Dinner

The Salem Garden Club celebrated its silver anniversary with a dinner and program Monday night in Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. George F. Jones, 1936 president, and 10 past presidents were honored. Special recognition also went to Mrs. John Smeltz and Mrs. E. E. Williams, charter members of the club, and to Mrs. William Mackey, president of the Salem

Garden Study Club, which was organized by the Salem Garden Club.

Letters were read from some of the past presidents who were unable to attend. Those in attendance were Mrs. Burt Leeper, who served in 1934 and 1942; Mrs. C. R. Votaw, 1936; Mrs. L. B. Harris, 1938; Mrs. R. R. Cuthbert, 1948; Mrs. Carl Flickinger, 1949; Mrs. S. F. Sonnedecker, 1950; Mrs. W. D. King, 1951; Mrs. Russell Smith, 1941 and 1952; Mrs. Chester Kridler, 1953; Mrs. E. S. Huffman, 1954 and 1955.

Mrs. R. V. Proctor of Youngstown, regional vice president of the Garden Club of Ohio, was another honored guest.

Mrs. A. A. Parker and Mrs. Lozier Caplan collaborated in writing the skit, "This Is Your Life," starring Mrs. Jones as "Mrs. Salem Garden Club." Mrs. Caplan was narrator. Mrs. Ralph K. Zimmerman, Mrs. Harry Krone and Mrs. Powell Schmauch had supporting roles. The skit depicted the achievements of the club in its 25 years of existence.

At the close of the play the past presidents and Mrs. Smeltz, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Mackey were introduced. Each was presented a corsage. Mrs. Smeltz spoke of the club and extended good wishes for its future endeavors.

Highlight of the evening was a book review of Ewald Mand's "The Unfaithful," given by Mrs. J. Atlee Fredericks of Navarre.

Mrs. James Barrow and Mrs. V. R. Horning served as co-chairmen of the decorating committee. They were assisted by Mrs. Joseph Caladine, Mrs. George Conrad, Mrs. J. A. Cornell, Mrs. James Cross, Mrs. Elizabeth Fouts, Miss Helen French, Mrs. George Gartner, Mrs. Walter Gray, Mrs. Charles Haldi, Mrs. H. P. Harper, Mrs. John Holzwarth and Mrs. F. W. Hone.

Miss Anna Cook presided at the organ and entertained with dinner music.

The dining room was decorated throughout with spring flowers. The four dining tables were laid with white cloths and lighted with white tapers in silver holders. Each table was graced with colorful bouquets of mixed flowers in silver containers. Favors at the place settings were silver spoon lapel pins with sprigs of lily of the valley.

An arrangement of calla lilies centered the table where the past presidents were seated. Bouquets of daffodils and snapdragons graced each end of the table.

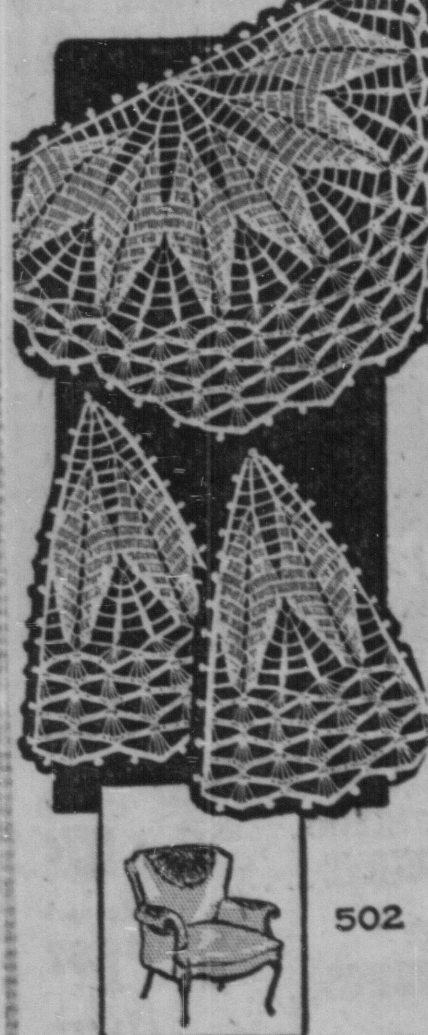

Discarded eyeglasses, rosaries and prayer books received from many members will be sent to mission stations.

Refreshments were served by women of the St. Aloysius Parish. Mrs. Gonda and Mrs. Walter Ewing, retiring delegate at large, poured.

This meeting concluded the deanery sessions until fall. A board of directors meeting will be held sometime in June, the date to be announced. Plans will be made for the next year's activities.

Mrs. Gilbert London of Goshen Road has been admitted to the Cleveland Clinic for observation.

Expansion Of GM Questioned By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—A staff report to the Senate's "big business" subcommittee questions whether General Motors should be allowed to expand freely into any new fields.

It also says GM should cut prices of its cars and other products in view of what it says were the company's "extremely high profits" over the past eight years. The report, made public Tuesday night by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), suggests further study by Congress and the Justice Department to see if action is called for to curb what it described as a trend toward monopoly by the six billion dollar corporation, world's largest manufacturing concern.

In Detroit, a GM spokesman said company officials have not had a change to study the report. "However," he added, "on the basis of the entire record before the committee, the staff's conclusions as publicized are unwarranted."

Citing GM's dominance in such fields as truck and diesel locomotive manufacturing, as well as its recent purchase of extensive facilities for making earth-moving equipment, the staff report says the corporation's size gives it competitive advantages not necessarily good for the economy as a whole.

O'Mahoney said in an accompanying statement the study "broadly intimates that the time has come to consider at least the limitation of any further expansion of the corporation into other industries."

In addition, the report said, "in view of the extremely high level of profits sustained over such a long period in the interest of the consumer should receive stronger recognition by the company in lower prices."

subcommittee chief investigator "all the information I can disclose without violating my oath as a lawyer." But he said he has "no objections to giving this information again if the committee so desires it."

McClellan summoned both Kravitz and George Klass, Herman's brother-in-law, for questioning about Army contracts.

McClellan has announced he would ask them about prior testimony that they invested millions of dollars in bonds bought under phony names and profited from big Army uniform contracts after the government had blacklisted them. The senator said he also would inquire about Herman Kravitz's reasons for hiring Chotiner to defend him in the federal court case.

Murray M. Kimmel, a New York City accountant, testified Tuesday that in auditing the books of the Kravitz's A. C. Clothing Co. in Atlantic City, he found recorded a $5,000 fee paid to Chotiner on July 1, 1953.

"I thought he was hired on the basis of his ability," Kimmel said, adding that "I had heard as well that Mr. Chotiner was an influential person. . . I had heard he had handled matters of this sort."

An incident in the gubernatorial campaign probably reddened the faces of airline officials in Columbus.

Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, a Republican gubernatorial aspirant, rushed to the municipal airport to board a plane for Cleveland. But an airport employee said he was too late to get aboard even though the passenger ramp still was in place.

O'Neill pleaded that he probably would be late for his Cleveland engagement if he could not fly. The employee was adamant.

Later the airline office called to inquire of O'Neill why he failed to use his reservation.

2 Injured As Blast Shakes Judge's Home

DOVER, Ohio (AP)—A dynamite bomb was set off today outside the hillside home of Probate Judge Ralph Finley, with a blast that was heard for miles.

Judge Finley was in Florida on a vacation, but his wife was injured and his mother-in-law was shaken up by the explosion.

The bomb was set off in an apple orchard about 100 feet from the window of the bedroom where the women were sleeping. It tore a crater four feet deep and eight feet across.

Mrs. Finley suffered minor cuts from flying glass and a curtain rod which struck her. Her mother, 79-year-old Mrs. Lydia Pfeiffer, had been staying with her.

Sheriff King Hiller said whoever set off the bomb apparently had crept down to the house from a lovers' lane road about 300 feet up Seven Mile Hill from the house.

He estimated that between 10 and 20 sticks of dynamite were used to make the bomb.

Hiller said neither of the two women could think of any motive behind the bomb. But the sheriff speculated that the bombing might have been done by some person who appeared before Judge Finley in court.

The crowd pushed and shoved to shake hands with the Premier and two women kissed him. He grinned and waved.

Early in the reception Khrushchev's face was set in a scowl as he complained to Russian visitors about what he called the "piggish" treatment he and Bulganin had received from some British Laborites.

British and Russian officials said the party boss was angry over the exchange Monday night at a dinner given by leaders of the Labor party, the British Socialists.

Roaring Fire Levels Hotel; Three Missing

WARREN, Pa. (AP)—A roaring fire destroyed the century-old Carver Hotel, biggest in this city of 15,000, early today and hours later police frantically sought to contact three guests officially listed as missing.

The list of missing had been cut from an original total of seven as four men reported they had escaped safely from the blazing 105-room structure. But Police Chief Mike Evan, who had been optimistic that all guests would be found safe, admitted:

"We're worried about three men. We have been unable to find any trace of them."

Chief Evan said the guests unaccounted for had registered as:

M. D. Pinney, R. R. 3, Jefferson, Ohio.

B. J. Stotts, 619 Carlisle Ave., Dayton, Ohio.

M. V. Dwight, 322 Storer Ave., Akron, Ohio, listed as an employee of B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.

The broadcast appeals asked each of these men to contact Warren police immediately. Police were attempting to check their families to see whether the men had reported to their homes.

One hotel guest and one would-be rescuer were hospitalized for injuries. At least five other guests were treated for shock or minor injuries.

Russians Open 'Spy' Tunnel To Public

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians announced open house today at the tunnel they claim the Americans burrowed under the Iron Curtain to tap their communications lines.

East Berlin's Communist press invited the public to inspect the 1,600-foot underground passageway running under the border between the American and Soviet sectors of Berlin.

The air-conditioned tunnel contains elaborate listening devices, switchboards and recording apparatus. The Russian claimed the Americans used them to tap three main cables used by the Soviets for communications with their forces in east Germany.

There was still no comment from American headquarters in Berlin beyond the statement that the Soviet allegations were being investigated.

4 Ohioans Die In Plane Crash

Finding Of Bodies Ends 2-Day Search

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U)—The bodies of four socially prominent Cincinnati residents were found in the wreckage of an airplane near here Tuesday night, ending an intensive two-day search across Ohio.

The wrecked plane was first spotted by a Civil Air Patrol plane.

The victims of the Sunday night crash were: Richard Bethell, 28, the pilot; Ward Mathis, 30; Miss Joanne Heekin, 22, and Miss Joan Thurston, 22.

The four young people were returning to Cincinnati from New York. The two women had attended a wedding of a Smith College classmate. Bethell and Mathis had visited Bethell's parents at Montclair, N. J.

The bodies of the two men were found in the twisted mass of wreckage. The body of one of the women was found beside the plane and the body of the other about 60 feet away.

The bodies were taken to the Morrow Funeral Home at nearby Pataskala. Bethell's body will be taken to Montclair. The others were to be taken to Cincinnati, probably today.

Only one wing of the single-engine plane retained any semblance of its original form. The remainder of the aircraft was wadded into a mass of metal, wood and fabric.

The wreckage was found in a wheat field of the Leon Angevine farm 2.3 miles north of Ohio 16 and about one mile west of Ohio 310 in Licking County. Angevine, 60, said he knew nothing of the crash until informed of it by the State Highway Patrol.

At about the time the wreck was spotted by the CAP, a local resident Ray Wantland, happened on the scene while walking his dog. He ran a mile to his home and phoned the Pataskala emergency squad which arrived shortly after the highway patrol.

Highway Patrol Lt. Marlon Curry said the plane apparently spun in, struck the ground and then skidded an estimated 276 feet, hurling bits of metal across an area 500 feet in diameter.

Cecil Ulry, who lives about one mile northeast of the crash scene, said he heard a plane, apparently in distress, fly low over his house with a "swishing" sound Sunday night between 8:30 and 9:30 p. m. The highway patrol said the instrument panel clock was stopped at 8:10.

The plane was last heard from Sunday night when Bethell made a radio report to the Youngstown Airport at 7:14 p. m.

Bethell was a salesman for the Monsanto Chemical Co. Mathis was business manager of Kettering Laboratories and assistant professor of medical administration at the University of Cincinnati.

Miss Heekin was a copywriter in a Cincinnati department store. Her father is D. J. Heekin, vice president of the Heekin Can Co. Miss Thurston, a secretary in the General Electric Co. plant at Evandale, near Cincinnati, was the daughter of A. C. Thurston, executive vice president of the Red Top Brewing Co.

Bethell, a licensed pilot for more than 10 years, had purchased the plane, a Beechcraft Bonanza, last fall. It contained full radio and night flying equipment.

Sees No Gains For Free Press

Government Holding Back Of News Rapped

NEW YORK (U)—Richard W. Slocum, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., said today that U. S. newspapers "have not been gaining in the battle" for a free press.

In an address prepared for the 70th annual ANPA meeting, Slocum charged that government officials are short-changing the public on information it should have.

He urged editors to look into the motives behind the recent Senate subcommittee questioning of New York newsmen and the U. S. Treasury's temporary seizure of the Communist Daily Worker for allegedly unpaid taxes.

"He said newspapers should announce that they will fight 'harassment or interference with the public right to a free press.'"

And he said editors have not supported what he termed the "wholesome study" being conducted by a House subcommittee into withholding of information within the government.

Slocum, executive vice president of the Philadelphia Bulletin, expressed confidence "that the American press will meet its obligation of full, fair, objective and unbiased reporting" of the year's political campaigns.

Noting that there is a difference between the news and editorial columns of a newspaper, he said: "We would urge upon both (political) parties that in any criticism or attack they name specific newspapers for a specific performance or lack of it, not cast an accusation against the whole press or any special part of it."

But, Slocum said, the American press "cannot be a free and continuing press unless it operates on a sound financial basis, self-sustaining and without subsidy, direct or indirect."

He said the supply of newsprint is a major problem and "no relief is in sight" for the current shortage.

American newspapers are, however, receiving the largest volume of newsprint in history, Slocum added. He said the shortage stems from the "tremendous" and sudden increase in use of newsprint.

Slocum is retiring as NPA president after serving two yearly terms.

The public must give stronger support to the "battle for press freedom," he told more than 1,000 publishers meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

"We are the active trustees of that right and we intend to continue vigilant and vigorous in its assertion, or government agencies constantly tend to act like clams," he said.

Slocum said no newsman wants to harm the nation's security.

"The trouble arises, and the public gets short-changed on information," he said, "because many public officials have an outsize sense of what is important to national security."

One of the difficult jobs of house-keeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary of wax and scrub; just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non-slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

Keys Are King

By HERB ALTSCHULL

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Don't let anybody tell you that in Germany, beer is the key. The real sovereign is the lowly key.

Keys are everywhere. You can't get into a mouse hole without one. The German housewife wouldn't know where to begin her day without her peck of keys.

She carries around at least a dozen of them, and sometimes a score or more.

First there's the key to the front door. Sometimes there are more than one, as for instance, the keys to the bolts.

Then, if she lives in an apartment, there is a key to the apartment door. In each door of the house, whether it be a two-room flat or a 20-room mansion, there is the familiar key. Many Germans still lock themselves into their bedroom at night.

But this is only the beginning of the key cycle. There are keys to the back door, too; to the basement, to the attic, to the china closest, the desk, even to the fuse box.

And, strange as it may seem, Germans even lock up their refrigerators at night.

Beer, of course, is a German institution, too. The Ministry of Foods announced this month that 10 million gallons of beer were consumed in the federal republic in 1955.

This averages out, the ministry said, to 20 gallons per person, "including women, children, old people and refugees."

And they all use keys, an indeterminate number, since there is not yet a federal ministry of keys to keep score.

If anybody happens to lock the key inside a room or a refrigerator, he'll send out a call for the "schlosser," or keymaker, a busy fellow in this country.

No self-respecting German motorist would ever leave his car unlocked, even for a quick dash into the grocery store. And the quaint American habit of leaving a motor running and the keys in the car shocks German sensitivity.

Not long ago an American businessman in Frankfurt bought a house and went on an inspection tour with his landlord. The living room was locked and no key was evident.

"It's in the basement," said the landlord. "Let's go get it."

But the basement was locked, too. The call went out for the "schlosser."

Sociologists have an explanation for the German key consciousness. They explain that the German people are more security conscious than any other people in the world.

This is so, they say, because Germany has for centuries been surrounded by hostile, or potentially hostile, forces, the Austrians to the south, the French to the west, the Swedes to the north and the Russians to the east.

Therefore, according to the explanation, Germans tend to protect what they have — even down to the sausages in the refrigerator.

Mahoning Valley Scout Group Hears First Quarterly Report

The executive board and operating committees of the Mahoning Valley Council of Boy Scouts met at Camp Stambaugh April 16 to hear the first quarterly report of the scouting program in Mahoning Valley for 1956.

"For God and My Country" is the scouting theme for the next four years. The first three months of 1956 were applied to setting this nation-wide program in motion in the local scouting council.

Howard Nepper, representing region four, congratulated the council officials for the "excellent job being done."

Harry Shagrin, chairman of the council advancement committee, reported that the goal for the year was 2,608 boys advanced at least one rank during the year. He said that 790 advancements had been reported during the first three months of 1956. This was 35 per cent of the goal, he said. Shagrin also told the group that 40 per cent of all the troops in the council were at least first class scouts.

Reporting on the activities of the council's training committee, Clark White, chairman, told the board that out of 54 possible cub pack leaders to be trained, 46 had received proper training. Of 80 troop leaders, 70 had been completely trained. Of 19 Explorer posts, 14 of them had trained leadership.

Walter Chuck, chairman of the camping committee, reported that his committee had achieved 30 per cent of its goal for the year. He said that 22 out of 67 units had already registered for summer camp at Camp Stambaugh. This represented a total of approximately 378 boys.

The organization and extension committee, headed by William Storey, reported that its goal for the year was 15 new cub packs, 20 new scout troops and 10 new Explorer posts. "So far this year," said Storey, "there have been 4 new cub packs, 7 new scout troops and 6 new Explorer posts organized."

Dr. Barclay Brandmiller, reporting on the health and safety committee's progress, said that bad weather had prevented his group from making a more favorable re-board and professional scouters of the council to continue their efforts to further the scouting program in Mahoning Valley.

Harry Hunter, former chief scout executive for the council some years ago, attended the meeting. He commented on his astonishment at the advancement and growth of the scouting plan in this area.

Salem Track Team Defeats Girard For 3rd Straight Win

Alexander Again Paces Victory

Quakers Capture Nine Firsts in Meet

By BOB MCARTOR

Braving the snow and cold breezes, the Salem track men won their third straight dual meet, after tying for first in the opener, last night at the Salem oval over Girard 71½-46½. The Zellersmen captured 9 firsts and allowed their foes only 25 points via the first place win route.

Due to the half snow - half rain during the day and the first part of the meet the track was wet and muddy in some places, which accounted for the comparatively slow times turned in by the speedsters of both teams.

Jack Alexander, who recently broke the high school high jump record again paced the locals in the scoring column as he capped 2 wins and a second and third place for a total of 14 points. This boosts his total points for the year in dual competition to 63 points.

Mark Fenton, Quaker miler, showed promise of better things to come as he took top honors in this event with the good time of 5 minutes and 2 seconds. Fenton would probably have done much better had he some competition, but when he hit the tape the closest man was 70 yards back. Mark, a junior, is in his second year of track and with some experience he should develop into a very fine miler.

Another junior, Fred Ziegler, got off a 123 foot, 1 inch heave in the discus, which gave him his fourth straight win in four meets in that event. Ziegler, with some better weather conditions, will likely be getting off better throws every meet. His effort last night in the muddy ring was the second best thus far this year.

Gary Painchaud won his specialty, the half mile in the time of 2 minutes 16 seconds and he anchored the winning mile relay team. The team, composed of Dick Coppock, Bill Holzworth, Nick Costa and Painchaud reeled off the respectable time of 3:50.9, the best time this year.

Three sophomores also figured in first place points for Salem. Bob Howard, for the second straight meet, came out on top in the low hurdles barely edging two Girard men who were inches behind. Dick Heston and Jim Horn were in a four way tie for first in the pole vault. Heston reached the highest jump of his career with a 9 foot leap. Luke Huddleston, a senior, was the third Salem man in the tie for first.

Dick Buta again finished second behind Fenton in the mile and Nick Costa gathered points with a second in the 440 yard dash. Bill Schuster came in second in the half mile and Alexander was beaten out by 2 inches in the broad jump and took second, John Buta, brother of Dick Buta, added to the winning cause with a second in the shot put. Herb Haschen, Salem's 220 man, was barely nipped in a spintangling finish in that event.

Haschen probably would have won the 100 yard dash, but there was a false start and the starter's gun didn't sound twice to recall the runners. Haschen ran the full 100 yards by himself not knowing that he was alone. They then made him run without a rest but he finished a close third.

The Quakers will be idle until next Thursday when they will tangle with the Youngstown Rayen Tigers at 4 p.m. in a dual meet at Rellly Field.

Yankees Whip Nats, Tigers Drub Athletics

By JOE REICHLER

The Associated Press
Vinegar Bend Mizell appears a cinch to win 20 games for the St. Louis Cardinals this season provided Ellis Kinder's aging arm holds out.

The young lefthanded Mizell has turned in victories in his first two starts but in each case he needed ninth inning assistance from the old righthanded Kinder.

Tuesday night, exactly a week after the pair had combined to down the Cincinnati Redlegs 4-2 in the season's opener, the Mizell-Kinder duo teamed up to defeat the Reds again, this time 5-3.

After walking the first batter in the ninth, Mizell was relieved by Kinder who promptly gave up a hit to Bob Thurman, but put the potential tying run on base. The 41-year-old relief bore down, however, to strike out George Crowe and persuaded Johnny Temple to hit into a game ending double play.

It's too early to make comparisons but the Mizell-Kinder act is reminiscent of the Reynolds - Page duo who pitched so successfully for the New York Yankees in 1949. Rain and cold weather raised havoc with the schedule Tuesday, limiting the action to three games, two in the American League. In those, the Yankees whipped the Washington Senators 4-1 and the Detroit Tigers drubbed the Kansas City Athletics 7-4.

The home run ball was very much in evidence in the Yankee and Tiger victories. They accounted for all but three of the 11 runs made by the two teams. The Yankees hit two, one of them a three-run blast by Hank Bauer. The other was a solo blow by Yogi Berra.

Bill Tuttle, Ray Boone and Renzo Bertola were the Tiger home-runners. Tuttle, who also singled, drove in four runs. Bertola had two singles besides his four-bagger and scored three times.

Rain washed out the scheduled game between Boston and the Orioles in Baltimore. Cold weather forced the postponement of games between Milwaukee and Chicago, New York and Pittsburgh and Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

The postponement was a break for the Red Sox who have lost three straight while Ted Williams, their big slugger, has been nursing a tender foot.

Shantz To Oppose Indians Tonight

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, thus far suckers for southpaw pitching, will face left-hander Bobby Shantz of the Kansas City Athletics tonight.

Shantz, once the best pitcher in the league, has regained some of his old form after three years with a lame arm. He pitched a five hit 4-1 victory over Detroit last week in his first start of the year.

The Indians, loaded with right-handed batters, have been ineffective against lefthanders this year. Three of their four defeats in the six games this season have been imposed by southpaws. Billy Pierce and Jack Harsbman beat them by one run in Chicago and reliever Al Aber of Detroit edged them in Cleveland. The Tribe has scored only three runs on 12 hits in 25 innings against southpaws.

"We haven't been a good club," Coach Tony Cuccinello conceded. "But as bad we've been, has anybody beat our brains out? We lost four games, three by one run. If we had done any hitting at all we'd have won them all."

Tony added that "our hitting is bound to get better if only because it can't get any worse."

Manager Al Lopez assigned Herb Score to work in the first game of the extended tour. The Indians are scheduled for 15 road games before they return to Cleveland May 11.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By R. L. LIDE

About 100 people witnessed the stocking of one ton of walleye pike in Lake Guilford Sunday.

This is the first live shipment of fish bought by fishermen and another truck load will be sent in by the Ohio Division of Wildlife about Thursday.

All fish were in excellent condition and ranged in size from 12½ to 27½ inches, the largest weighing about 7 pounds. They were placed in a live box where fish technicians towed them out in the lake, tagged them and released them.

Many of the females were heavy with spawn. It remains to be seen if they reproduce. At least we can expect walleye fishing in the lake this season and walleyes are worth going after.

WHILE EVERYBODY was crowding around the fish truck, Kenny Shear of Canton was busy spin-casting. He caught a 19 and a 20-inch bass using a C. P. Swing. Mrs. Grace Palmer of Guilford was busy landing bluegills. She had 11 on the stringer and continued fishing. She is one of the few fishermen who know how to fillet a sucker and get rid of most of the bones.

Bluegills, perch, bullheads and occasional bass have been biting at Guilford. Although it is spring the weather has certainly been anything but comfortable for fishing. I know by experience that the fish are more active this time of the year when the sun shines. On cold, cloudy days very few are taken in the net nets, but when the sun shines the nets are loaded. The annual spring test-netting began at Guilford Monday.

A GROUP OF BOY SCOUTS from Hanoverton labored planting two thousand pines and spruce trees on the Zeprenick Lake area over the weekend.

Not only do they get merit badge credits but they earned $80 to be put in their till. They camped out Friday and Saturday nights in the rain and cold. But they followed the scout motto, "Be Prepared," and camped in comfort.

I spoke to a group of cub scouts, at Chester, W. Va., last Thursday and showed movies. I suggested a field trip to the beaver dam at Guilford. The boys have placed it as a "must" on future activities.

THE "OUTDOOR CLINIC" now being carried on by the Columbiana County Sportsmen Organization in New Waterford, Lisbon, and United Local school gymnasiums certainly holds the interest of about 400 boys from age 11 up.

Next Monday night will be the second session and will end the following Monday night. The subjects being taught and discussed are: hunting, fishing, camping, fly tying, fish identification, archery, hawk and falcon identification, trapping, firearms which will be followed by a course in hunter safety in the outdoors that will be taught all summer. It takes time to put them through hunter safety but 24 qualified instructors have taken on the task.

May I suggest to parents, for safety sake, do not let your boy start out on his own with a gun until he has been taught how to shoot, what to shoot and thoroughly understand the proper use of firearms.

All instructors deserve a lot of credit but the men teaching hunter safety have taken on a large job and need more instructors. Full information can be obtained from Dutch Miles, Jennings Ave., Salem.

Members of the Salem Hunting Club were the instigators of this movement locally.

Battling: Ken Boyer, Cardinals—Drove in four runs with a home run and single as the Cards defeated Cincinnati 5-3.

190 Attend Athletic Dinner At Greenford

The Greenford Athletic Banquet was held Saturday evening with 190 attending.

Members of the PTA served a turkey dinner.

Tables were laid in green and white. The athletic table was centered with a white basketball amid white snapdragons and greenery. Favors were green shoes. The band members were also guests, and had music stands in green and white as their favors. Their table was centered with a white music clef amid snapdragons.

Don Gardner, sports announcer from Youngstown, gave a talk. Coach Harry Frankland presented his varsity team with awards.

Receiving awards were Larry Bennett, Carroll Rowe, Jack Brudery, Jerry Hendricks, Ray and David Hiner, Jerry Ewing, Stanley Manypenny, and manager, Frank Coy.

The Reserves receiving awards were Richard Toot, Harold Everson, Ralph Seaman, Don Shepherd, Kenneth Feicht, Darrell Bush, Charles Cook, David Beery and manager Tom Flick.

The cheerleaders for both teams receiving awards were Beverly Dustman, Myrna Dunn, Kathryn Groves, Patsy Ferguson and Carol Ann Puttkamer. Frankland also introduced his track and baseball teams.

Mr. Grist, the junior high coach, awarded letters to the cheerleaders, Linda Hendricks, Darlene Beck, Betty Dustman, Shirley Howells. The Junior team earning letters were Dick Lodwick, Mervyn Bush, Robert Mincher, Robert Hendricks, Harry Paulin, Gary Will, Clyde Shoff, Arden Saurewein and two managers, Dale Bennett and Kenneth Paulin.

Those who kept scores at the games were recognized, Donna Black, Barbara Gilmore, Carolyn Witmer and timer, Donna Jean Alexander.

Following the program round and square dancing was enjoyed, directed by Mr. Andrulis.

Harrison Favored In Canfield Race

The hard-driving Jack Harrison of Indianapolis will be the favored driver to capture the 100-lap new car race at Canfield Speedway on Saturday night.

Harrison is the new holder of the world's record for one lap. Harrison turned one lap on the half mile track at Dayton in 22.93 last week and then went on to capture his second feature victory of the season in his 1956 Ford.

Canfield's scheduled opener on April 21 was rained out and the same program has been rescheduled for this week. It will be a new car event, limited to 1954-55-56 models, and featured will be the 100-lapper. Also carded are three heats duels and the Australian pursuit.

Tug Wilson, OSU President To Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Big Ten Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson is scheduled to meet today with Ohio State University President Howard L. Bevis and faculty representative Dr. Wendell Postle.

Purpose of the meeting was not announced, but Wilson has been investigating the Buckeye football picture for several months. His visit today has given rise to the belief that the commissioner's decision on whether OSU has been violating athletic regulations may be not far off.

The inquiry into the school's athletic program was touched off when a national magazine reported football coach W. W. (Woody) Hayes had made loans or gifts of money to some of his players.

University officials have declined comment on the investigation until the decision is announced.

Wilson can either exonerate the university, issue a reprimand for a minor infraction, place the school on probation for a more serious violation, or suspend it from the conference.

Kid Gavilan Beats Waterman

Scores Revenge For Disputed Decision

LONDON (AP)—Former world welterweight champion Kid Gavilan hammered out a decision over Britain's Peter Waterman Tuesday night in a tough 10-rounder.

It was sweet revenge for the 20-year-old Cuban who lost a disputed decision to Waterman, 21, in London in February.

Most observers thought Gavilan won that fight easily.

Meanwhile the most worried man in British boxing is promoter Jack Solomons.

He staged tune up fights Tuesday night for British heavyweight champion Don Cockell and Jack Gardner before their scheduled title fight in Leicester May 28—and everything went wrong.

Joe Bygraves, 24-year-old Jamaican living in England, scored a technical knockout over Gardner after 2:03 of the second round and Kit Law 22-year-old Tongan, knocked out Cockell in 2:17 of the second round.

Both were scheduled non title 10 rounders.

FIGHT RESULTS

Boyer, League's Top Hitter, Brings Hope To Card Rooters

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP)—Ken Boyer, who hit only .264 as a major league rookie last year, is off to a whirlwind start and leads the National League in batting while giving St. Louis Cards' followers high hopes of a banner season.

In his first seven games, Boyer has collected 15 hits—the most in the majors—in 27 at bats for a .555 average. He got two safe blows and drove in four runs as

Former Track Star Accuses AAU Official

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A former Stanford University track star has accused Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the American Amateur Athletic Union, of arranging for him to make a trip to Canada that exceeded AAU expense account rules.

Ferris, in New York, quickly denied the allegation, branding it as "ridiculous."

John T. Fulton, who was a half-miler at Stanford and captain of the 1946 United States track team which toured Europe, held a long conference Tuesday with Larry Houston, secretary of the Southern Pacific Assn. of the AAU. Then he announced he would place before the AAU Executive Committee a charge that Ferris was "instrumental in my defection" from amateurism.

It was the "shocking" lifetime suspension of Miller Wes Santee that prompted Fulton's decision to air his case, he told newsmen.

Fulton, 33 and now an independent television producer, displayed a letter dated March 19, 1956, from Ferris in answer to Fulton's wherein he told Ferris they both might be guilty of violating rules.

Ferris disclaimed any knowledge of alleged irregularities. He said: "Your attempt to besmirch my reputation is definitely libelous. If you certainly did it without my knowledge. Was your letter written in an attempt to intimidate me?"

Fulton told Houston and newsmen that in 1944 he competed in several Eastern indoor meets at the invitation of the AAU. He said he won events in the Millrose Games in New York and at the Boston Gardens. He said he was tired, had blisters on his feet, and so went to Ferris and told him he was returning home.

"The National Indoor Championships were coming up and Ferris asked me to stay on," Fulton related. "We agreed that I could take a trip to east Canada to visit my grandparents whom I had not seen since I was little. I got a voucher from the AAU and bought a round-trip plane ticket to Canada. And I got my $7 a day expense money every day I was away. I know this was far in excess of AAU expense rules."

Fulton said that when he returned from Canada he ran in the Nationals and then in a Knights of Columbus event, for which, he said, he received $600 in cash in an unmarked envelope. He said he still doesn't know who delivered it to his room. For winning the Millrose race, Fulton said, he received a $45 watch and an $85 set of golf clubs, being cautioned to silence.

Ferris said he has consulted AAU records "and there's not a word of truth in what Fulton said."
